DEFINITIONS:

- AARS Each year seedlings are evaluated for a 2-year period. The best performers are designated as AARS Award winners.
- Earth Kind A designation given to select roses by the Texas A&M. They have been through rigorous testing and found to possess a high level of performance and outstanding disease and insect resistance. Once established, have excellent heat and drought tolerance.
- Easy To Love Weeks Easy To Love roses are amazingly easy to grow, naturally disease resistant, vigorous and flowerful from spring to frost.
- Kordes W.Kordes' Sohne is one of the largest and oldest rose breeders in the world. Kordes® roses are tested worldwide in order to insure that these beautiful and disease resistant roses meet the needs and expectations of today's consumer.
- Texas Superstar Plants tested by Texas A&M CEMAP and found to be truly outstanding plants, which consistently delivered the highest levels of landscape and garden performance, coupled with the widest range of adaptation and the strongest pest resistance.
- Hybrid Tea These types of a rose usually have a vase-like shape and are known for having perfect blooms and buds. Most varieties are fragrant and are reliable repeat-bloomers, if deadheaded.
- Grandiflora The largest of roses. They are big upright plants with large headed blossoms. The flowers appear mostly in clusters, similar to floribundas, and many types are fragrant and reliable repeat-bloomers.
- Floribunda Outstanding types of landscape roses that bloom nonstop with floriferous trusses of blooms. They are low-growing with an attractive bushy shape, and extremely hardy and easy to grow.
- Polyantha Similar to floribundas, but technically older and less intensely bred. They bloom nonstop all season long, and have great disease resistance.
- Shrub A common term for a great many roses with a wide variety of shapes and sizes. They often have old-fashioned blooms. These roses are very versatile in a landscape garden, and are very cold hardy and disease resistant. Many are used for ground-covers, such as the flower Carpet roses. They lack the traditional, perfect buds found in Hybrid Teas, and some are poor choices for cutting. There is usually little or no fragrance.
